"ICEBERG" STATESMEN.

John Sherman is 63 years of age, and has been active political life since he was a delegate to the national whig convention in 1848, when he was but 25 years of age. He entered the lower house of congress in 1854, and served continu-ously until he was elected to the U. S. Sonate in he served continuously in the Senate until he was appointed secretary of the treasury in March, 1877, and served as such during the President Hayes administration. He was elected to the U. S. Senate and took his asst March 4th, 1881; was re-elected at the last session of the Ohio legislature for six years from March 31, 1887. Here is a man, who has been in public life continuously from 1854, a period of thirty-two years; a length of service that is only equaled by that of the venerable Semator Mortillof Lorrors. equaled by that or the vegerable contact.

riff of Vermont, who is 76 years of age. And yet in face of this unbroken record of public service John Sherman is sometimes eig-matized as "the iceberg statesman." This is a very common and cheep criticism of the ablest and best of public men on the part of the pirate engineers of purity "rings."

Go back to the foundation of our government and you find Washington denounced by the satante press of his day as a "cold" man, in contrast with Jefferson who was a social man and shone in conversation. John Chines Adams. a statesman and scholar at once able, independ ent and philanthropic was always derided as a "cold man" in contrast with fiery Jackson. So were Webster, Calhoun, Clinton, Chase, Marcy, Fessenden, Summer and Thad Stevens. So to-day Conking, Serris and Hoar are called "cold" men. Indeed the "cold" men include the best men of both parties, meaning by this the purest, the ablest the received. the ablest, the most incorruptible. The best men in the democracy to-day are its "cold" statesmen, like Bayard, Pendiston, Hawitt, Carlisie, Bandail, Tilden and Thurman, and its worst and thespest statesmen have been its so-called "warm" men, like Bouglas, Bul Twend, Bub. "Wath" men, use roughes, and riversa, non-Toombe, Voorbiers, and Blackburg. Hanty Clay, Lincoln, Seward and John A. Andrew were men at once compitionally able and pure in action and genial in social intercourse; but there are visinal avalanthers to the rule. The they are signal exceptions to the rule. The iceberg' statesmen, so called, in our history, include our ablest and strongest public mon.

The fruth is that the popular judgment of men as "rodu" or the reverse is superficial.
Cold block, distant manners and reserved speech ite as offen go with a kind heart and a humane spirit as warm blood and cordial " as Blaine. Webster was of sluggish blood and cold outside, but he was to and generous to at in his domestic life. When he was secretary of state he had a bright little for a page, and the great Daniel would pick this boy up, hold blue on his lap, pinch his care pleyfully and put him a kindle as it he had been a white child. In his last sickness Webster commended a faithful colored male attendant to the good offices of one of his personal friends, and there is plenty of evidence that he had bear as well as brains. Reserve is often merely shyness of spirit and nine-tenths of our studious lawyers would be voted "cold" but the by the crowd, because they do not naturally reliab the noise, the effusive babble and horseplay of mixed public gatherings. truth is, social manners, whether cold or cordial, are merely the test of a man's physical temperament, not at all of his true inward spirit. Jack Falshii Was as warm, cordial and captivating as possible in his convivial manners and conversation, and as mean, wicked, cowardly, dishonest, sellish and corrupt in conduct as a man could be, while the upright chief jus-tice, whom Falstaff twits with having thin blood and a cold liver, was a just and apright person.

Warm blood no oftener implies warm heart than cold blood. Warm blood may stand for a genial gentieman, like Clay, or for a traitor, like Judas Iscariot, whom the great Hainan art-ist painted as having red hair and a warm contion. Jefferson and Washington were both warm-blooded men, but Washington's routiful modesty and shyness became reserve in man-lood, white Jefferson's superior social opporwhen roung, as lawyer, legislator and thence when joung, as navyo, agentose non-milician, developed his powers of conversa-tion and imparted grace and case to his man-ners, and yet on this sight basis of difference of manner Washington, was invariably described higher transmission was arounded by even those not sufficiently to his party as the Reberg statesonm of his time. So warm was Washington's natural temper that once, at the Washington's natural temper that once, at the Alexandria polls, after he had been president, be gave the fire a political opponent named Parne and was promptly knock-1 down. With true greatness of spirit he called on Payne the next-morning and apologized for the proveduction he had given for the blow. Given passed for a silent, cold, selfish man many of his countrymen, until his lat sufficient with the fact sufficient production with the mark drugged from his force as sunder the distance and unselled a man as line-dr. In the light of history the feature of the light of history the a man as time-it. In the light of history the ferberg states men have been our superior men, and John Sherman can take comfert, when he is next called an icoberg candidate, in the relection that none-ferents of the most useful and uplight public servants of every community are decreased as the ball-ways of every community are decreased as the ball-ways. classed as the icebergs of the social son, butter, the horse jocker, the loafer, the dem-spegue is never "an iceberg slatesman," for these classes are always warm, gusting, carindecenses are always warm, guallog car-onal, in season and out of season: but the just judge, the profound lawyer, the serious man of large and various business responsibility, the grave deter and the unsettish dergyman, these are the clares that generally suffer from the gives of the turbulent, who stigmatize all men sweepingly as cold. sweepingly as cold, when they only want to be quiet. It is the thought and work of these cold thinkers and passionless workers that in the long run helps to warm the world by imparting stronger light and heat to our civilization, and the high record of their life and work is better than the elequent the service of warmscendrels who betray onder the cover of their blandishments their best friends, who kiss the crowd when they plot in their hearts hew they may crucify it to their own advantage.

A NOTE OF WARNING. The address delivered in this city on Monday by Hon. Thomas Fitch was no common "F, urth of July oration." It was a note of warming against the dan-gers of the time the like of which, we lieve, has not before been sounded in this nation. Its truths are common truths, known of all men, and they point, as the gifted speaker falled not to show, to terrible dangers. The growing power and the corrupt methods of wealth on the one hand, and the spreading disass of communism on the other, threaten aw (assect communication on the owner, throaten and in the interior of the license o newer or the rage of despair. We cannot out that it may event the passetic and virtuone spirit of the masses will preserve the coun-

Oregon a marketing her fruit crop to better advantage this year tash ever before. The pre-ducers are learning to pack it in better siyle an I the declers have found it more extended market for it. Tens of thousands of pounds of straw-berries an i cherries have been sold outside of the stars, zoing as far as thicago. Everywher our product is the best in the market and is preferred to that of all other localities at higher prices. As trains now run there is a good deal of bazard in shipping far east but a fine market is found desired before the above Washington, Indoo and Montana take enormous quantities all in act that the commission men here can send them. The larger fruits will not be na ptential this search read owing to the late May rainzand the cool, weather which followed. It is the theory of a well known orchardist that the unknesonable cold arrested the flow of the sap and that the bude died or dropped off from lack of non-islament. Apples, pours, prunes, plums etc., well only makes hell crop, but the quality as usual in short years, will be excellent. Fruit growitable than under the old plan where variety rather than quantity was the chief considera

Mr. Rowe, general superintendent of the Oregod its lwap & Na Agathon company, has information which leads him to the belief that the grain surplus of the Columbia river basin this year will exceed that of last year. This will surprise these who have put their faith in the earlier reports, but we see no reason to doubt Mr. Rewe's reports, which are general and from Sources entirely worthy of confidence. About Wella Walla the crop will be short, but elsewhere and particularly is the "new country"—the Fa ha and Mescow clatrice—the yield will be terr large. Mr. Rowe figures upon 2) per cent. Decrease over the surplus of last sea and is making preparations to mass eason, and is making preparations to fransport this large chantity. Mr. Elijah Smith, president of the Origon Railway of Navigation, who within the post for might has gone given the lines in Eastern Washington, cluffirms Mr. Rowe's estimates. mates. It is evident that the Commbia river basin si to be the grangry of the Northwest. Its capicity for production is enormous and can be doubled by the extension of railroad branches. The soil contains the elements for a hundred years of wheat production, and with (very lidle artificial ail could be devoted to wheat or an indefinite seried. Year by year it grows more evident that it e formers of the valley will have to sok to other crops, but the problem is a difficult one. Wheat will got pay, does not pay in fact, but in the present state of our markets it is the only thing which will sell at all. Though the common council declined to confirm the indper's appointment of Mr. James Lotan as fire commissioner, it is, we thing, due to the public and to hanself that the major should still adhere to the principle he announced in his message to the common council on the subject, and nominate another man tractical knowledge of fire matters. No com-thint, so far as we know, has been made of the manner in which Mr. Lotan has performed his duties; and his record as a tiren pages and his known methanical salit justify all the major said of him. But inasmuch as a majority of the common council have voted against aim the matter is ended, so far as he is concerned. It would be wall, however, for the mayor to adhere to the principle he has init down; and this he would not do if he should nominate the min whom the continuous council has asked him to nominate. 1 rot. W. O. Atwater, of Wesh yan university, Frof. W. O. Atwaler, of Weeleyan university, has a careful review of the whole question of oleomargarine in Bruttstreets, in which he comes to the following conclusions:

(1) The common kinds of imitation butter, oleomargarine, butterline, etc., when properly made, agree very closely in the metal composition, digestibility and nutritive value with butter from cows milk. (2) In fulfilling on of the next important functions of food, namely, that of supplying the body with heat and musicals energy, they, with butter, exact in eliticancy all, or nearly all, our other common food materials. (a) Considering the low oses at which they can be produced, as well as their palarability and no rivive value, they form a food product of very great economical importance, and one which is calculated to greatly benefit a large class of our population whose limited memors make could drive these altitudes of portance, and one which is calculated to greatly benefit a large class of our population whose limited incomes make good dairy by there a large year initiation butter. like many of regularitations butter, like many of regularitations that risks in blade to be randwised mortiple come by incomper materials and mediad-soft mannature. It is also open to the specific objection that it is kernely sold as generally mixture. The interests of the nation, therefore domain that it should be suggested to competite of first special, and that it should be suggested to competite of the special, and that it should be suffered to remove the office of the competition of first special, and that it should be sold for which is said out as greating outlet.

Valerous Plee Ploa

St Louis Globe-Democrat.

The expulsion of the French gilness may be a political necessity, but it is difficult to believe of one of them, at least that he could ever provoke a serious disturbance of any sort, sluce he has made it a special point always to keep out of harm a way. We refer to Plon Ploa, of whom his cought and "if anyboly ever indea a bullet in Plon Plon body, it will be one he has awallowed."

Friends of the soldier

Boston Herald

The nature of many of the private pension biles is disclosed in one of the president s veto of one which granted a pension to the mather o a man who deserted within three weeks after enlisting, and was "found drowne! in a caust" a month later. And the men who pass these bills call themselves the "soldiers" friends."
